Dear Mr. Reber:

It was very pleasant meeting you on my recent visit to Green Bank and especially having the opportunity to discuss with you your interests in plant growth. On my return to Princeton I told my colleague, Dr. William P. Jacobs, of your experiments with beans. Dr. Jacobs, who is a plant physiologist, tells me he will write you to make some comments on the problems of spiral growth and possibly provide you with some references.

As I told you in our conversation, I believe you would find it worth-while, if the opportunity ever arises, to discuss your interests in plant growth with Dr. Sterling Hendricks at the Department of Agriculture Laboratories in Beltsville, Maryland.

I hope that you have a good trip to Australia.

Yours sincerely,

E. G. Butler
