Dear Grote:

I have just finished calling the hotel to find out if you may have had a change of heart after sleeping on it over night. I was informed that you had checked out early this morning. So I called the warehouse and asked them to put everything back in place that they had pulled out yesterday afternoon. It is certainly too bad that you are so adamant about paying a $40.00 obligation that is over seven years old. As I said last night when I left, think it over and let me know. The dishes will be taken out of storage when we move, and since you will be travelling around, we can make disposition of them when you happen to be in the vicinity of Memphis. I will let you know.

Sincerely yours,
