Dear Hap,

Thank you for your letter and enclosures of October 26th which arrived here on November 1st. I met Dr. Williams only once, he impressed me as a kindly old gentleman who had done a great deal for the people of this world. I am sure his work will carry on for a long time. Your note of October 29th arrived here on November 4th. It is enlightening to see the extremes some people will go to for publicity sake. I am anti anti-matter. Thank you for your note of November 9th which arrived on 16th. It seems that the group at Green Bank has been gotten down by a decade of unhappiness. I predict the end is not in sight.

The medicoes took off the plaster around my arm last Monday. After X-raying, manipulation and sundry twistings, pressings and poundings, they pronounced the arm coming along nicely, then they proceeded to put on another attenuated version of the plaster. This gives me better elbow and finger motion, but my wrist is still constrained. The new plaster is scheduled to come off on the 13th December.

If Bill Hinkley can defer his visit for a few weeks he will not have to learn pounds, shillings and pence. This country changes over to dollars and cents on Valentine's Day. One Australian dollar will equal 1.13 U.S. dollars.

Next month I expect to have something interesting to report.

Best regards,

Grote Reber.
