Schuyler:

Recently, I arrived back here on Maui and carefully examined a lot of mail awaiting me. Unfortunately there was no further word from you.

In view of the conduct of you two during the past couple of years; it is understandable why you do not want to see me. However, I want to see you.

I suggest that you promptly write to me, telling me what you are doing and where you are. This will save me the bother of hunting you up. I have adequate material for a lengthy discourse without adding this subject to the agenda.
