From JOHN E. PFEIFFER

Thank you again for your help in looking over the Jansky chapter and your favorable comments. Also, I am excited to hear that you have found and are looking through the hole at 2 mc. The chapters about your work and Jansky's have been rewritten somewhat but not so that factual material would have to be re-checked. My visit to Jodrell Bank, Cambridge, and the Radar Research Establishment (Hey) in Malvern was most helpful, not only in obtaining numerous corrections and suggestions and criticisms. Also, I had a chance to bring myself a bit more up to date. Things are moving fast. I was particularly interested in Ryle's new survey and its cosmological implications. Lots of good luck to you. My delay in answering your note of June is occasioned by the trip to Europe--plus the flood in the midst of which we are at present (excuse the grammar). We are digging ourselves and our neighbors out and will be cleaning up for weeks.

Yours,

John
