Dear Mr. Roberts,

Some weeks ago all the experimental beans were harvested from your garden at 92 Tolosa Road. They are at present being examined, counted, weighed and studied. When the final analysis has been made I will advise you of what has been learned. Enclosed is a short article describing the results of a previous experiment at Green Bank, West Virginia.

In accordance with my promise, a small quantity of seed for a trial planting of the variety with striped pods will be supplied for next years planting.

I wish to thank you for making space available for this experiment and look forward to trying some other experiments next year.

I am,

Sincerely yours,

Greta Reber.
