Dear Al:

Thanks for your cordial letter of the 16th. Some of the past few weeks has been spent hunting around the lava flows on the southwest rift of Haleakala. The results have been good as I've found charcoal under four different flows. When this has been analysed and dates secured, we should have some idea of the volcanic activity during the past couple of thousand years. After it is written up and published, perhaps others will be interested enough to carry on the study and exploration.

Everything seems to be in order here. I have sent off two boxes of small things direct to Green Bank via Matson Isthmian lines. They should arrive in three weeks and I am advising Green Bank direct to have them taken from Baltimore to Green Bank.

I'll be on Transocean flight #401 next tuesday (30th) morning. It arrives at 9:45am at Burbank airport.
