Dear Grote:

I find with some amazement that your letter, written in flight, is dated February 26th. Probably my correspondence in general is pretty bad, but I am slightly shocked to find I am this far behind with you.

It sounds as though you had a very interesting and profitable series of visits. The new developments of your field continue to sprout in all directions and continue to amaze me.

Other than acknowledging your letter and extending good wishes, the only purpose of this is to let you know we are still here and express hopes that all is well with you down under. We will, of course, be interested in further development of your plans for closing out down there and proceeding to exploration of the Northern Hemisphere.

Best wishes,

Charles H. Schauer
