Dr. Heeschen:

Dr. Merle Tuve from the Carnegie Institute of Washington called around 12:00 Noon with a message about Dr. Pawsey's condition:

He visited Pawsey this morning and found him in good spirits, although his condition is considered fairly serious. He has possibly had a stroke (his arm is pretty well gone, and leg is giving a lot of trouble). (Mr. Tuve mentioned maybe a clot). His doctor is Dr. Rizzoli, one of the best neurosurgeons in the country. Dr. Pawsey is in Washington Hospital Center, 110 Irving St., N. W., Washington, D. C., Room 4-D36, Telephone TU 2-5500. (Hospital number).

Dr. Tuve requested we do three things:

1. Contact Hvatum in New York and cancel the meeting he had with Pawsey in Washington on Friday.
2. Cancel train reservation that someone here made for him.
3. Send Dr. Pawsey's baggage by Railway Express or Parcel Post to:

Dr. M. A. Tuve
 Dept. of Terrestrial Magnetism
 Carnegie Institute of Washington
 5241 Broad Branch Road
 Washington 15, D. C.

If Dr. Pawsey should become well enough to travel (which would of course be several more days), he will probably go direct to Australia.

Ed McClain was going to call on him this afternoon, and Dr. Tuve said Dr. Emberson also planned to get in to see him.
